

Amendments to the Specification:

Please amend the specification as follows:

Please amend the paragraph beginning on page 30, line 10, as follows:

For example, onscreen representation applying only an external CSS may be provided before providing the normal onscreen representation in which all of types of external data is applied. In other words [[wards]], the operation of the rendering process according to the embodiment can be expressed as providing firstly onscreen representation, which is less rich in presentation than the normal onscreen representation but can be provided in a relatively short time, and thereafter providing the normal onscreen representation which requires a relatively long time to display but is rich in presentation.
